

MILTON CHACON

Professor Chacon has twenty years of institutional experience in real estate, structure finance and credit analysis. Mr. Chacon is a graduate of Baruch's MBA program and has been an Adjunct Professor in the Real Estate department for three years. Currently, he is a Managing Director in the Merchant Banking Group at Cantor Fitzgerald where he evaluates and structures M&A transactions and joint ventures in the real estate sector. Mr. Chacon also owns and manages a New York focused multifamily investment and property management firm. Prior to Cantor, he was a banker at Hypo Real Estate and Deutsche Bank where he structured and managed securitizations for first time and seasoned real estate specialty finance companies. Mr. Chacon also worked at Moody's Investors Service for seven years. At Moody's, he held various positions including team leader in the CMBS group, head of CRE CDOs, and Co-Head of Term ABS. Early in his career, he worked as a product controller at Nomura Securities and as an auditor and consultant at Kenneth Leventhal E&Y. Mr. Chacon started his professional career at Citibank in the late 80's where he helped develop credit and risk management systems.

Education

BS in Computer Science and International Marketing - CUNY Baccalaureate Program
Holds CPA, CFA and CFP designations.

Employer web site: www.cantor.com

Email address: miltonjchacon@aol.com