

ROBERT A. MANISCALCO

Mr. Maniscalco began his legal career on Wall Street at Dewey, Ballantine, Bushby, Palmer & Wood in New York City. He also worked for the Wall Street firm of Brown & Wood and the Connecticut firm of Day, Berry & Howard before forming his own firm. Mr. Maniscalco's legal representation has been primarily devoted to real estate work and his clients have included Chase Manhattan Bank and other major money center banks, Merrill Lynch and numerous other investment bankers, the City of Miami, Dade and Broward Counties in Florida, ORIX Capital Markets, LLC, Tiffany and Company and numerous real estate developers.

Together with Tanis Reid, Mr. Maniscalco is the author of numerous articles on real estate. Recently, he has been a frequent lecturer on real estate law topics, is currently an adjunct professor in real estate law and is a member of an advisory panel to the law department, all at Baruch College's Zicklin School of Business.

Mr. Maniscalco has also been personally involved in the development of real estate from the land acquisition, rezoning, and construction of several suburban office and retail developments to the construction and sale of single family homes. He is a member of the Connecticut and New York Bars. He is currently Vice President - Real Estate - The Americas for Tiffany and Company.

Education:

B.S. Degree (High honors in Real Estate and Urban Economic Studies) – School of Business, University of Connecticut, 1972

Juris Doctor Degree(JD) – Cornell Law School, 1975

During law school at Cornell, he was a visiting professor of business law at Cornell's Graduate School of Business and a visiting lecturer in business law at Ithaca College.

Email address: RobertManiscalco@Gmail.com